Trump Musk DOGE

Posted on February 15, 2025 by jamesq

Nature does not provide human beings who work tirelessly and selflessly for the benefit of mankind, certainly not billionaires and politicians. We live in a world where folks are enthralled with billionaires and trust them to guide the rest of us in the right direction. Surely, they love ordinary people just as much as ordinary people love them, right? Soon we will have a new parasitic federal agency milking money out of society along with the rest of them. Here is what to expect. In the beginning, there will be a lot to be impressed with. What happens next?

It will be out with the old crime syndicate as a new crime syndicate is being initiated. Musk and Trump will be the heads of the new one. Folks will love the new one and never snap to what is actually occurring.

Tech and healthcare will be replaced with new entities, but business will go on. Crime at the top will continue. The difference will be new players and of course since the new one will have been organized by beloved American role models, there will be no push back from citizens.

Different corporations will get the benefits. Americans will still work for the lowest possible wages as Trump does what is good for Trump. Musk will do what is best for Musk. Americans will be fine with it because they love both Trump and Musk. Department of Government Efficiency is a fine name to give an agency, just as is the Department of Education. A good sounding name means a good and properly focused institution, right? Citizens will get used to it and DOGE will be just like wallpaper they have gotten used to.

In time, both Trump and Musk will be gone. DOGE will be a permanent parasite and a quite happy one.
